

Draft league description:

This year we are using a new draft league format where all players register individually and are drafted onto a team by team captains/ league organizers. Previously, the league consisted of a "BYOT" format, or "bring your own team," which consisted of team captains who are in charge of running their own teams. This new draft league format will even out the teams and improve the level of play league-wide. Players will be asked if they are interested in captaining a team and may be asked to provide player feedback and/or participate in the draft process. One of the most important parts of a draft league is for players to accurately describe their abilities so we can make the teams as even as possible. The registration process is a bit longer and will ask for more specific information about previous playing experience, speed, height, etc so that we have as much information as possible to evenly distribute the teams.
